

A New Series for Children with an Incarcerated Parent

Tell Me About When Moms and Dads Go To Jail

Judi Goozh and Sue Jeweler

48 PP • ISBN: 9781785928079 • PAPERBACK • $14.95

Ideal for use with children aged 6-11, this is an invaluable resource for supporting the wellbeing of children whose parent is incarcerated. It explains what jail is like and why some people have to go there, while reassuring children that their parent loves them, is safe, and is working hard to come home again. Included are activities to help children manage their feelings, tips for parents and professionals on how best to support them, and a list of resources for additional help and information.

“This book delivers concrete information to children who experience conflicting and confusing emotions when a parent is incarcerated. The therapeutic activities and resources included provide constructive ways to successfully navigate the challenges and fears they face. Both books are excellent resources for families, school libraries, and counseling offices.”

—Nancy Elbin, Retired elementary classroom teacher for 26 years and elementary school counselor for 19 years

“Provides relevant information to children that supports their understanding of incarceration and encourages them to explore their own feelings and experiences. The combination of reflective activities for children with tips for parents and professionals is invaluable!”

—Kendra Jochum, LCSW-C, Reentry Services Manager, Montgomery County Correctional Facility, Maryland

Tell Me About When Moms and Dads Come Home From Jail

Judi Goozh and Sue Jeweler

48 pp • PAPERBACK • ISBN: 9781785928062 • $14.95

This book is a vital resource for supporting the wellbeing of children whose parent is coming home after spending time in prison. Using plain language and photographs, it reassures children and guides them through adjusting to their parent’s homecoming. It explains which feelings the child and both parents might experience and the different challenges that everyone in the family might face, while suggesting ways to build new bonds with the parent. Included are activities to help children manage their feelings, tips for parents and professionals on how best to support them, and a list of resources for additional help and information.
